

I live in northern california on the 16th my brother was going to have heart surgery. His son and I departed for southern california and as we approached pasadena we tuned to the traffic report in los angeles . there was a major sig alert on the 210 freeway. we managed to avoid the area and arrive in time to spend some very valueable time with him before major surgery. without xm traffic report we would have been stuck in traffic for hours.